1. RESPONSE TO QUESTIONS

Q1: Please confirm who is responsible for the demarcation line work for the gas lines for the sites? If it is indeed the contractor do you have a point of contact at consumers so that we can coordinate with them about installation and testing.

A: The Contractor will be responsible. The contact at Consumer Energy for this will vary based on location and gas line requirements. Contact Courtney Weishuhn for gas lines up to 7" W.C. and Kyle Brott for anything over 7" W.C. Their contact information is shown below:

Q2: RFI in reference to the hand holes for Parchment station duct bank. I found the detail on page 25 of the generator drawing set . The height of 48" is shown, no length or width. Is a 48x48x48 concrete hand hole with an open bottom ok? My contact can also provide the attached round hand hole at 30" but not 48". Please Advise.

A: Refer to page 25 of the Remote Site Generator drawings the concrete hand hold is shown with a heavy duty 30" manhole frame and cover.

Q3: I am wondering if it would be acceptable to install the duct bank at Parchment using a directional bore method as an optional alternative to the concrete encased duct bank shown on the prints.

A: This is an acceptable alternative to the concrete encased duct bank at the Parchment location.
